THE NORTH PACIFIC TRADING & PACKING COMPANY

by Kaye Dethridge
from an old issue of METCA
date unknown

The North Pacific Trading & Packing Co. of Klawock was incorporated in 1879 under California law. The firm of Sisson & Wallace saw the possibilities of the salmon industry. At the time, the site was owned by a George Hamilton who had a trading post and small salmon processing operation. This operation started about ten years before the sale to Sisson & Wallace.

The cannery burned in 1899 and was rebuilt across the bay. Mr. Sisson died around 1915. In 1929 Libby bought the cannery. The operation today (ed note: circa 1980) is known as Southeast Seafoods.

The following item appeared in the "Alaska Sentinel Wrangell" of November 26, 1908: "All persons having any of the aluminum checks issued by the North Pacific Trading & Packing Company of Klawock, Alaska are hereby notified to send or present same to the office of this company at Klawock for redemption before January 1, 1909 as no more of these checks will be issued." Signed H.F. Swift, Supt.

The $1 token is brass incuse and 32mm by 35mm. The one in my collection was found in 1968 in Old Tuxekan about 25 miles from Klawock. This token was picked up in the course of planting a garden. Old Tuxekan was the site of a saltery and Indian village.

There is also 50¢ token that is 28mm brass.

HOCKEY MOM PULL TABS!

You know you have made it big nationally when you are spoofed on Saturday Night Live. But you really have not made it in Alaska until you are featured on a pull tab!

Alaska has charitable gambling, including pull tabs, bingo and raffles. This is one of the ways nonprofit organizations raise money for their activities. These organizations can range from churches to youth sports.

If you want one, send an SASE and $1. If still available, I will just pop it in the SASE and send it back. If not, I will return your $1 in your SASE. These will be "un-ripped." To be a valid winner, the pull tab must be "ripped" in the place of purchase, so if you rip it and have a winner, you don't have a winner.

The good news is that Sarah is back in Alaska for 2 years. You betcha.

MONEY TO BURN

A Furthest South Wooden Tokens.

I let my membership to the Token & Medal Society lapse this year, and wouldn't you know it, they actually had an article of interest. Bob Lyall in England saw it and started hunting these down.

After several emails and inconclusive answers, when he was about to give up, these showed up in his mail box.

The building housing the bar dates back to at least 1878. Donald John McLeod was the owner of the building. Bill Jones suggested they convert the building to a bar. The first license for the Victory Bar was issued to Bill Jones on October 14, 1946. The name of the bar is derived from victory in World War II. Subsequent owners were Cyril Bets (1957), Mally Betts (1962), Jimmy Watson (1963), Jimmy Clifton (1964), Chris Jacobsen (1970), Jimmy Jacobsen (1973), Renald Reid (1980), Vivian Perkins (1982) and Alastair Jacobsen (1984). It is a family run establishment with Ally and his wife Chris, and their daughters Tanzi and Chris holding down the fort.

Its location is just two blocks up from the waterfront, just up Philomel St. from the jetty. The "Vic" caters to the locals, and also serves the tourist trade that comes to Stanley and the Falklands, mainly by cruise ship.

The menu, shown on the next page seems very reasonably priced (by Alaska standards). Lamb is conspicuous by its absence. Since lamb is the predominant meat in the Islands, I would guess that if you are going out to eat, lamb is the last thing one would order!

Three wooden tokens are known. They appear to make up two distinct issues. All are dated 2000 and feature a "drunk" rabbit.

Illustrated above left is a black on wood, with the web site in a straight line. Only one size is known.

The wooden tokens on the next page are both printed in red, with the web site curved around the rim. The red tokens were made in two sizes as shown.

I had hoped that we might be able to identify the manu-

Welcome to Stanley, the capital of the very British Falkland Islands.

During your stay please don't forget to visit Pat & Pat, the two P's at The Pod Gift Shop, where you will find all sorts of interesting souvenirs, made in the Falklands by people from all over the Islands.

In the Falklands we drive on the left side of the road, so our traffic will appear from the wrong direction!

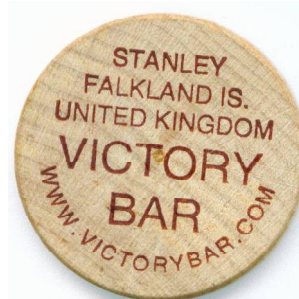

Our Monetary system is the same as UK, although we do have our own notes and coins. Most Shops Pubs and Restaurants accept Falkland, UK, US Dollars and Euros. Some but not all accept credit cards.

We hope you enjoy your visit to the Falkland Islands and will take with you many good memories and photos. If you do, tell your friends, if you don't please keep it a secret!

facturer by the “drunk” rabbit that graces the obverse of all the tokens, but that appears to be “Wally,” also featured at the bottom of the menu.

Unfortunately, the owners cannot remember why they issued the tokens, or how they were used. Obviously, they are no longer in use. They currently use “Wallycards” (there goes that wascally wabbit again).

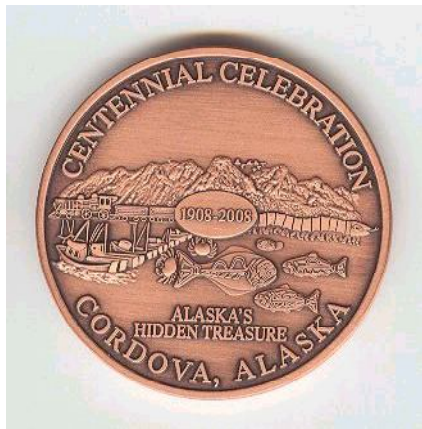

The cards are pre-paid cards, and in return for prepayment, a percentage bonus is added.

The tokens that Bob sent me are all “brand new,” not dingy as one would expect had they been used. Perhaps they ran afoul of some local Falklands ordinance.
